

ACADEMICS

Paulina
Jimenez
Warrington Elementary
3rd grade

My friend does not like to study her multiplication because she says it is boring. I told her that if she didn't study her multiplication she will not pass her test and she will have to stay in the third grade. So, we invented a game to help her study her multiplication. We played the game for 15 minutes using her multiplication cards and that is how she studied her multiplication. When it was time for her to take her test she got a hundred percent. She was so happy. She thanked me and we went to celebrate at chucky cheese. We played until we were tired and we won a lot of prizes.

Libby
Valdovinos
Warrington Elementary
5th grade

To get your attention today I am principle for the day and this story will surprise you. "The entire school is going to ride roller coasters" I said over the microphone. When we were finally there everyone got on the roller coasters. Then, suddenly everybody's hair went upside down and I could only hear this ahhhh! When we got off the roller coasters everyone's face had a smile on it and they could not close their mouths. When the ride was over at the fair the bus driver took us to the ocean so we could go diving. We put our gear on and went diving. But, of course this kid in the second grade said, "I'm going to bury myself alive" and I thought that was weird. Anyway, when I went diving with the air tank I decided to ride on the fin of a shark. I know you are surprised, but all the shark did was swim away. After that a kid found a sword in the sand. I told him he would get a referral if he did not put the sword down. The last thing we did was we went to the water park. We looked for a store that we could buy swimming suites from. We bought some swimming suites, put them on, and went sliding down four slides. After the water park, we went back to the school and everyone got on their buses and went home.

Christopher
Taylor
Warrington Elementary
3rd grade

You would need to study your spelling words if you want to pass your test. If you want to become a smart person you have to study. I try to persuade my friend to study his spelling words. I want my friend to pass in school and become smart. I would help my friend and try to show him a fun way to study. I like spelling it is fun. When you get older you have to know how to spell and count. If you don't study it will be hard to find a job you like. Studying can be fun and after all you can make a hundred on your test. You can find good jobs and have a good family.

Daisja
Johnson
Warrington Elementary
3rd grade

A friend does not want to study his spelling words. He should study so he can get a good grade on his test. Listen to this story I am about to write. Think about why this boy should have listened to his friends. Once upon a time there was a poor boy named Edward and he had two rich best friends named Jacob and Bella. They all were in the same class. They had a spelling test on Friday and that day was tomorrow. Their teacher told them to study, but Edward did not want to study. After school Bella and Jacob wanted to study with Edward, but Edward said no. They told Edward to study his spelling words so can get a good grade and pass third grade. Edward said, "you can't persuade me." The next day Edward failed the test while Bella and Jacob got an A+ because they studied.

Deauna
Mack-Knight
Warrington Elementary
3rd grade

Do you have a favorite person for Black History Month? Well I do. My favorite person for Black History Month is Barack Obama. Barack Obama is the President of the United States and he makes speeches every day. I watch his speeches at home after I get done with my homework. I love to watch the President make speeches and when I go to my aunt's house we watch his speeches together. When I grow up I want to be the President of the United States. I love to make speeches at home to my parents. I dream at home about making speeches. Now you know my favorite person for Black History Month.

Da'shanique
Dupree
Warrington Elementary
5th grade

I want to write a story on academics. My story is about being principle of the school for one day. My first reason why I would want to be principle of the school for one day is because I would buy candy and lots of treats for students for being good in class. My second reason why I would like to be principle of the school for one day is because if students make good grades and are on the "A" honor roll or the "AB" honor roll I would give them a certificate with their name on it. I would also give them a little bag of candy with a little teddy bear and a card saying how proud I am of them. My third reason why I would like to be principle of the school is to share with children and to make them very smart. I would help them pass all of their grades and prepare them to give their best effort to pass the FCAT. My final reason why I would like to be principle of the school is because I would like to teach students right from wrong. I hope that you liked what I wrote because effort equals achievement. So, don't give up students! I hope you liked me being your principle for the day.

1. On Saturdays, I enjoy watching cartoons.
2. I like to sit with my friends at lunch time.

PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE

Underline the prepositional phrase.